Corner on World Gold by U.S.A., Is Depression Cause

World Can't Pay in Gold, and Goods Won't Do—Cline

Centenary Professor Outlines History at Hope Civic Banquet

DEBTS, MORE DEBTS

Cancellation of War Debts, or Lower Tariff, May Be Solution

World commerce is stagnated because "the nations can't pay their debts to America in gold, and we won't take their goods in trade," Dr. Pierce Cline, professor of history in Centenary college, told the community clubs' banquet in Hotel Barlow Tuesday night.

The historian, seeking to explain the business depression of the last two years, pictured "in which all the nations had raised up tariff barriers to slow down the quick exchange of commodities. In addition, the huge war debts owing to the United States from the Allies have helped to drive foreign commerce from our shores, the speaker said."

"I do not come here to advocate the cancellation of war debts or the launching of a free-trade policy," Dr. Cline said, "but with the hope of making it clear to all that America must adopt some policy which will restore her export markets and lead our own country and the world out of the present business depression."

4 Bank Suspects Taken in Battle

Walking Arsenals Discovered in Roundup of Leslie, Ark., Robbers

TAHLEQUAH, Okla.—(AP)—Three sheriffs and fifteen deputies early Wednesday surrounded in a tourist cabin near here four suspects wanted in the investigation of the bank robbery at Leslie, Ark., and arrested them after an exchange of shots.

Two of the four, Clayton Trippey and Joe Taylor, had escaped recently from the state penitentiary at McAlester.

The other two, Fount Cookston and Silas Fountain, are not known to have prison records.

All four men were heavily armed, and additional guns and ammunition were found in the cabin.

Trippey had $100 on his person. The Leslie bank was robbed April 21st.

President Fillmore's Birthplace Located

AUBURN, N. Y.—(AP)—The Cayuga County Historical Society recently announced it had located the birthplace of Millard Fillmore, thirteenth president of the United States.

The site of the birthplace, in the town of Summerhill, not far from Fillmore Glen, has been recognized by Marquis de Lafayette French, 83, of Antwerp, N. Y., the announcement said.

French, according to the society, said the cabin in which Fillmore was born was razed for firewood when he was a boy. French recognized the locality by trees and the geology of the land, the society claimed.

French said he played in this neighborhood in his youth.

Archery Association Selects National Mascot

BUFFALO, N. Y.—(AP)—A five-year-old Buffalo girl has been selected national mascot for the Junior Cross Bow Association, which expects to hold its national archery tournament in Chicago next August.

The mascot's real name was kept secret by the association, but she was named officially as "Denise Robin Hood." Denise, it was explained, was her own first name.

Little Miss Robin Hood originally was chosen mascot for Erie and Niagara counties and was selected from among other sectional mascots as national choice.

Indians to Present Special Buffalo Dance

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A special buffalo dance is to be given Interior Department officials by Indians of the Santa Clara reservation in New Mexico as a mark of appreciation for the aid of the Interior Department in obtaining buffalo hides for the Indians to use in their ceremonial dances.

Officials of the Yellowstone National Park sent the Indians a buffalo hide when one of the buffaloes in the park died last fall, and the hide was tanned and furnished the costume for the principal dancer in the annual buffalo dance which was held in February. The additional dance to be given in the near future is in appreciation to the officials of Yellowstone National Park for the buffalo hide.

Rep. McCabe Dies of Bullet Wound From Last March

Baxter County Representative Shot in Little Rock Hotelroom

SALESMAN IS HELD

Charge of Murder to Be Placed Against Georgia Traveler

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Nearly two months after he was shot at a local hotel State Representative W. U. McCabe, 50, of Baxter county, died at a hospital here Wednesday with a bullet imbedded in his heart.

McCabe had recovered sufficiently a few weeks ago to leave the hospital and return to his home at Mountain Home. Last week pneumonia developed, and his condition had been critical for the last two or three days.

He was struck by a bullet fired through the door of his hotel-room in Little Rock on the eve of the adjournment of the legislature in March. H. G. Lonsdale, traveling man of Atlanta, Ga., who occupied the room across the hall from McCabe, is free under bond on a charge of assault with intent to kill. The charge will be changed to murder, officials said.

McCabe died from congestion of the lungs resulting from the bullet wound, physicians said.

He was an attorney at Mountain Home, and a member of the state senate in 1921 and 1923. The last session was his first as a member of the house.

He is survived by his widow and seven children.

Negro Boy Admits Murder Man, Wife

House-Boy Confesses at Water Valley, Miss.—Lynching Imminent

WATER VALLEY, Miss.—(AP)—Sheriff T. C. Doyle announced Wednesday that Sam Green, 19-year-old negro house-boy, had confessed to the slaying of W. B. Wagner, banker and merchant, and his wife Mamie Wagner, in their home Monday night.

Green implicated several other negroes and white men, but the sheriff said he believed the youth was lying about the others.

Shortly after the announcement of the negro's confession a crowd of men departed in 12 automobiles for Greenwood, where the negro was taken for safe-keeping Tuesday.

Greenwood dispatches, however, said he had been removed from that jail and his whereabouts were unknown to the public.

Local Girl Honored For Scholarship

Margaret Bell to Graduate From Lindenwood, and to Teach Here

Miss Margaret Bell, daughter of Mrs. C. E. Bell of this city and who will be a graduate this spring at Lindenwood college, St. Charles, Mo., will teach in Hope High school next term.

Miss Bell will take a bachelor of science degree at Lindenwood next month. She has been honored with an invitation to membership in the Missouri Delta chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, social science sorority which is based entirely on scholarship.

This honor, which entitles her to a lifetime teacher's certificate, is regarded as one of the highest to be obtained by a student in education.

Society Given Old Relics

TOPEKA, Kan.—(AP)—Rare old relics of the Shawnee Mission have been donated to the Kansas Historical Society by William F. Horn of Topeka, whose family was among the early settlers near the mission just outside Kansas City, Mo. The society expected to send the relics to the mission, two buildings of which are now owned by the state and preserved as a historical shrine.

Board Member 52 Years

MEXICO, Mo.—(AP)—When S. P. Enmons, 84, helped dedicate the new high school here he announced that his dreams for Mexico schools had come true and that he would retire from the board of education, on which he had served almost continuously since 1879. The board decided differently, however, and recognized his long service by electing him its president emeritus for life.

Audit of City To Begin in 10 Days; Philbrick Auditor

Council Authorizes Report on City and Light Plant Finance

OIL BAN IS LIFTED

May Construct Filling Stations in the Business District

An audit of the City of Hope and the Hope Water & Light Plant, to begin within 10 days, was ordered by the city council at the first business meeting of the new administration Tuesday night at the city hall.

F. H. Philbrick, auditor living in this city, was chosen to make the report.

The council was called to order by Mayor John P. Vesey at 7:45 o'clock. Alderman W. A. Lewis was chosen acting recorder in place of Recorder Fred Webb who was indisposed and unable to attend.

Dr. J. C. Martindale was appointed city physician to succeed Dr. P. B. Carrigan, taking office immediately.

R. N. Berry was placed in charge of maintenance of city streets. Alderman Ira Halliburton received authority to make purchases necessary for the repair of the city jail, to be effected at once. Another purchase order approved by the council was for 500 feet of fire hose.

The principal ordinance action Tuesday night was a new law which in effect destroys the ordinance passed last year forbidding the establishing of filling stations within 200 feet of a church, hospital or other public building. The council passed a new ordinance setting up restrictions only beyond the fire limits. This will leave the field clear for the construction of new gasoline depots in the business district, which the old ordinance forbade.

Heroic Battle by City Department Is Won at 3 A. M.

Second Story of Betts Building Is Ravaged by Flames

Mysterious Explosion Early in Blaze Hinders Work of Firemen

LAST FOR 3 HOURS

City Department Out at Small Fire When the Alarm Was Given

A sensational fire held a midnight throng at Second and Walnut streets for three hours Tuesday night, and Wednesday morning, while Hope city firemen put up a successful fight to keep the flames from spreading to the rest of the downtown business district.

It was the J. H. Betts estate building on the northwest corner of the Second and Walnut intersection. Total loss was unofficially estimated at $25,000, of which $10,000 was for the building. The second story was destroyed, but the firemen kept the flames out of the ground floor after a long battle.

Fire Victims.

The following suffered fire loss:

J. L. Green pressing shop, severe loss.

Western Union Telegraph company office, severe loss.

Drake's Second Hand Store, total loss on second story, water damage on first.

Ebert Crutchfield, offices.

L. A. Foster, offices.

S. F. Huntley, justice of the peace offices.

A. L. Betts, offices.

Less seriously damaged:

Postal Telegraph company office, and office of Dr. L. M. Lile. Both of these were to the west side of the path of the flames, and suffered but slight loss. The Postal company's wires were operating Wednesday morning, and Dr. Lile continued to occupy his office.

The conflagration broke out shortly after 11 p. m., and was only checked at 2 a. m.

Early in the fire, about 11:15, there was a mysterious explosion on the second floor which blew off the south-east coping of the roof. Tin and bricks fell into Second street with a tremendous thud, narrowly missing the firemen, and shaking buildings throughout the business district.

Firemen Make Good Fight

After this the firemen were warned against entering the building, and were compelled to fight the flames from vantage points at windows and adjoining roofs. Four streams played on the blaze, but the water was baffled by the galvanized iron, decorative front above the second story on Second street. The flames curled around from behind this barrier, where the water splattered, and the red-hot ironwork gleamed down through the night at the crowded street below.

Although built more than 30 years ago, the building, it is thought, after a long and bitter battle the firemen finally extinguished the flames on the second floor.

Chief O. L. Wyatt of the fire department said he believed the fire started in or near the lodge rooms of the Woodmen of the World, which are on the second floor at the rear of the Division street. The women's circle building facing toward Division street. The women's circle of the lodge had been in session Tuesday night, but left the middle of the evening, and reported no fire had been used during the lodge meeting.

Fear of Explosion

Starting from the back central portion, the flames worked their way forward in the second story until they burst out from the roof and front, on Second street. The mysterious explosions materially hampered the firemen's efforts.

The Betts estate will rebuild the structure at once, it was announced Wednesday noon by O. A. Graves, attorney for the estate.

The uptown fire was preceded only half an hour by a blaze in a vacant small frame residence half-way down on South Main street, owned by Pat and Kenny Casey. This blaze, at 10:30 p. m., drew the fire-fighters' attention, but at 11 they hurried up town to the main fire, leaving one crew to extinguish the residence blaze. This was put out, but flared up again at 5 o'clock Wednesday morning and destroyed the house.

Jim Bearden Fined in Gun Argument

His Authority Questioned by Miller County Sheriff—Bearden to Appeal

TEXARKANA.—Jim Bearden, former sheriff of Hempstead county and formerly an agent for the state highway department, was fined $50 and costs in municipal court Tuesday on a pistol toting charge. He appealed to circuit court and made bond of $150.

Bearden contended that insofar as he knew he was still connected with the highway department when he was arrested Monday afternoon by Sheriff Walter Harris at State Line and Broad and entitled to wear a gun.

The state's contention was that Bearden had been let out by the state department the last of March and that he had no authority to carry the gun even if he had not been. Deputy Prosecutor H. M. Barney said Bearden's capacity was that of an investigator, not an arresting officer.

Under the law, only officers whose duty it is to make arrests or guard prisoners are entitled to pack a gun.

Sheriff Walter Harris testified that information had reached him from two or three different parties that Bearden was carrying two guns and looking for him. He said he had heard Bearden was in town Friday and Saturday.

Cross examined by Barney, Bearden admitted that his last pay check had been for March, but denied he had been discharged the latter part of that month as his badge and commission were not taken up by the highway commissioner.

At conclusion of the hearing Barney took up Bearden's badge and commission at the request of highway department officials and turned them over to State Patrolman Ras Strong.

7 of 72 War Aces Still in Service

55 Still Living, But Only 7 Are Still Active With Air Corps

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Of the band of 72 airmen who were aces in the world war, only seven remain with the army air corps.

A check by the air corps on what had become of its war birds revealed that 17 were dead, while of the 55 living there were seven on active duty and 15 with the air corps reserve.

The seven still with the service were credited with a total of 40 enemy planes, five victorious air duels being necessary for the unofficial title of ace.

These officers and their present posts are: Capt. Clayton Bissell, Langley field, Va.; Capt. Arthur E. Eastbrook, Philippines; Capt. Harold H. George, France field, Panama; Capt. James A. Healey, Duncan field, Tex.; Capt. Frank O'D. Hunter, Rockwell field, California; Lieut. Martin Stenseth, militia bureau, Washington; and Capt. Victor H. Strahm, Selfridge field, Mich.

CITY

Apply the revenues of the municipal power plant to develop the industrial and social resources of Hope.

More city pavement in 1931, and improved sanitary conditions in the alleys and business back-yards.

Support the Chamber of Commerce.

COUNTY

A county highway program providing for the construction of a certain amount of all-weather road each year, to gradually reduce the dirt-road mileage.

Political and economic support for every scientific agricultural program which offers practical benefits to Hempstead county's greatest industry.

Encourage farmer organizations, believing that co-operative effort is as practical in the country as it is in town.

STATE

Continued progress on the state highway program.

Fearless tax reform, and a more efficient government through the budget system of expenditures.

Free Arkansas from the cattle tick.

The Spanish Republic

THE Constituent Cortes, or Parliament, that the new Spanish Republic will elect in June seems more likely to succeed than the Cortes the republic of 1873 set up after Amadeo's abdication.

Most of the difficulties which beset that short-lived Cortes, and caused it to crumble precipitately with the new republic within a year's time, are not now present in Spain.

To be sure, the republic of 1873 started off with good intentions. It established wide suffrage voted for the immediate emancipation of slaves in Porto Rico, proposed the complete separation of church and state. But these liberal tendencies were insufficient to offset the factors opposing the new government.

The Spaniards at that time, inept in politics, were incapable of administering the new state. Leaders quarreled among themselves; the dominant Republican party split up into groups each of which declared war on the other. The Monarchists, enraged at the proposed cleavage of church and state, threatened to oppose the reforms. To make matters worse, the baby republic had three wars on its hands—a war in Cuba, a Carlist war, and war with the Federalists in southern Spain. The United States was the only government to recognize the new republic.

Today few of these obstacles confront Spain's new government. All the principal countries have recognized the republic. The provisional leaders have proved efficient, discreet. That Spaniards are better equipped now to handle intelligently the affairs of their government may be realized from the fact that a school for politicians has been established recently in Madrid. The people are not as illiterate as formerly. They are currently referred to as "sober," "sane," "sensible." The new republic, furthermore, isn't harassed by threats that Catalonia and Viscaya will "secede" and set up separate governments. As President Macia of Catalonia says, it is the purpose of Catalans to "live in an atmosphere of brotherhood and cordiality with all the people of Spain, establishing a Federal Republic."

Two Points of View

CRITICISM of American institutions from the other side of the ocean is not always worth listening to, European visitors being what they are. But a remark made the other day by G. K. Chesterton, the English author and lecturer, as he returned to England after a long tour through the United States, contains something that we could mull over a bit without hurting ourselves.

"From one end to the other of this magnificent civilization," said Mr. Chesterton, "there is no such thing as a village. When you enter a little town it is simply an eyesore to anybody of European tradition or instincts."

"The first things met are yellow tin advertisements, tin buildings with frameworks of lead and glass, and tin shops—and then, thank God, you are out of the town."

Obviously, the American small town rubbed Mr. Chesterton in the wrong way; and it is quite certain that there is an enormous contrast between the orderly, attractive little rural hamlets of England and the villages of the United States. But are things quite as bad as he says?

Probably not. Yet there is no sense in denying that he had good grounds for his criticism. Every American motorist can remember towns that fall precisely into that classification; towns that come as an acute disappointment to the traveler and that make him want to keep going, as Mr. Chesterton wanted to keep going, in the hope of finding something nicer.

It has been charged, by foreign critics, that Americans as a people are actually hostile to beauty; that they prefer ugliness to charm, and wilfully make their homes and their public buildings displeasing to the eye. Very likely it would be nearer to the truth to say that we are simply careless.

It would be fairly easy to remove most of the unpleasant features from the small town landscape, if a little time and money were spent on the job. Everybody agrees that this, that or the other thing looks pretty bad—and everybody waits for the other fellow to do something about it.

Some of the trouble, too, is due to the fact that the inhabitant of any town sees more than the visitor. He is used to the place. It is the Home Town, given a beauty it does not really possess by years of association. He is fond of it, and he treats it as one treats any friend—by turning a blind eye to its bad spots and by seeing loveliness where no stranger can see it.

So the traveler, passing through at 30 miles an hour, looks and says—"What a horrid place!" And the native, coming home after an absence, looks about him, feels a warm glow in his breast at the old, familiar sights, and murmurs that it's the most attractive spot in the country.

Bomb Voyage!

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

thus far its total will be about 5715 ships.

Fewer Ships Use Canal

WASHINGTON—Government experts have been reassuring the country that the Nicaraguan earthquake should and would have no effect on the project for a Nicaragua canal, but what may retard it is the fact that the old story about the Panama Canal becoming outgrown has been effectively knocked in the head.

Argument for a second canal from the Atlantic to the Pacific is now based almost entirely on the arguments that a Nicaraguan canal would provide faster transit for ships plying from Gulf ports or the east coast to the west coast and that it would have a distinct military value.

The contention that it would be much better in time of war to have two canals in case one were blocked up or destroyed is met with the assertion that our military and naval forces in the Caribbean would have to be divided to protect two and that if one canal could be blown up or something, so, presumably, could the other.

Would Save Time

Nevertheless, although the fact apparently was given no decisive weight when the Panama route was selected originally, it is estimated that vessels sailing from one American coast to the other would save an average of two days despite the fact that transit through the Nicaraguan canal would take 24 hours to the Panama Canal's eight. And that fact is likely to have more effect on Congress than the military argument.

Meanwhile, at the end of this fiscal year the Panama Canal probably will have been used by fewer ships than in any year since 1926-27. Some 5475 ships passed through in that year, 6456 in 1928, 6413 in 1929 and 6185 in 1930. The first eight months of the fiscal year 1931 showed 3809 ships passed through as compared with 4224 for the first eight months of fiscal 1930. If the present year goes on at the rate the Panama Canal to sea level.

Disease of Willow Trees Threatens Cricket Bats

LONDON.—(U.P.)—A ruinous depletion of cricket bats, weapons of Britain's premier summer sport, is threatened as the result of the spread of disease in willow trees.

This disease, known as the water-mark disease, is characterized by a discoloration of the inside stems. The first symptoms appear in the tops of the trees, then the foliage withers, the bacteria descend into the trunk and destroy it and the trees perish.

So widespread has the disease become in the principal willow growing areas in England that planters are cutting down trees immediately they are attacked. The main willow country stretches from the Lea Valley in Hertfordshire along the banks of the River Gipping and the River Orwell in Suffolk, and from Chelmsford to the North Sea.

Heavy financial losses are being suffered by planters and bat manufacturers, for many thousands of bats are used every summer both in Britain and abroad. The willow is among the most valuable trees grown, each being worth from $50 to $75.

Flays Soviet

Back home after five months in Russia, John E. Keider, above, former Cleveland, Ohio, labor leader, declares that the Soviet failed to keep terms of agreement as to wages, housing and food. "They got us over there under false pretenses," says Keider, who was hired as a labor instructor, "and living conditions were terrible."

Although officials of the Forestry Commission have known of the disease for about twenty years mycologists confess that they do not know how it is contracted. There is no evidence to show that the bacteria permeate the soil or that they are carried by the wind or birds.

Butt Tossing Costs $50

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—(U.P.)—If you're motoring through Rhode Island this summer don't toss any cigarette, or cigar butts from your automobile. It may cost you $50. A new state law carrying penalties up to this amount became effective recently.

Nothing So Good To Swiftly Stop FIERY ECZEMA

At Small Cost

Here's a powerful Oil—An anti-septic oil and a highly concentrated oil that you can depend on to put to flight the most obstinate case of Eczema.

If thru some miracle it should happen to fail—Ward & Son or Bryant's Drug Store or any good druggist will hand you back your money—freely.

And only 85 cents for a generous bottle of Emerald Oil that will last a long time.

Note: Being such an effective anti-septic remedy Moore's Emerald Oil is much used and with splendid results for Varicose Ulcers, Skin Blisters, Itching Skin, Pimples, Acne and Psoriasis. Remember also that Athletes Foot is caused by germs which germinical Emerald Oil kills, then the itching of feet and toes stops and feet are healthy again. Complete directions with each bottle.

Jefferson Monument to Be Complete

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—(U.P.)—The Jefferson monument in the Black Hills of South Dakota will be finished some time this summer and unveiled next year. Gutzon Borglum, Belgian and American sculptor, has announced.

Borglum, here on a short vacation, will go to Poland during June with Ignace Paderewski to attend the unveiling of a statue of Woodrow Wilson. While there, Borglum will model a portrait of the pianist. He will return in July.

Borglum exhibited to Kansas City bronze busts of Theodore Roosevelt and former United States Senator James A. Reed.

Record Cow Shipped

EYOTE, Minn.—(U.P.)—A cow weighing 1,775 pounds said to be one of the heaviest ever marketed in the state was shipped from here by W. A. Bierbaum. The cow, a shorthorn, "grew and grew," Bierbaum said, "I just let it grow."

Education Cuts Fire Loss

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—(U.P.)—Since 1922 when city officials instituted a fire prevention program among school children, fire losses have declined approximately $500,000 annually.

SOCIETY

Mrs. Sid Henry Telephone 321

Oh, may we be strong and brave, to-day,
And may we be kind and true,
And greet all men in a gracious way,
With frank good cheer in the things we say,
With love in the deeds we do,
May the simple heart of a child be true,
And the grace of a rose in bloom,
May you fill the day with a hope divine,
And turn your face to the sky's glad shine,
With never a cloud of gloom,
With the golden levers of love and light,
We would lift the world, and when,
Thru a path with kindly deeds made bright,
We come to the calm of the star-lit night,
May we rest in peace. — Selected.

oldest church of this city. Mrs. Charles Wilkins rendered a beautiful piano selection, a transcription by Liszt, from Mendelssohn's "On Wings of Song." Miss Katherine Franks gave a very delightful reading, "Jonah and the Whale." Following the program an ice course was served. The June meeting will be held on the lawn at the homes of Mrs. R. M. Briant and Mrs. O. A. Graves.

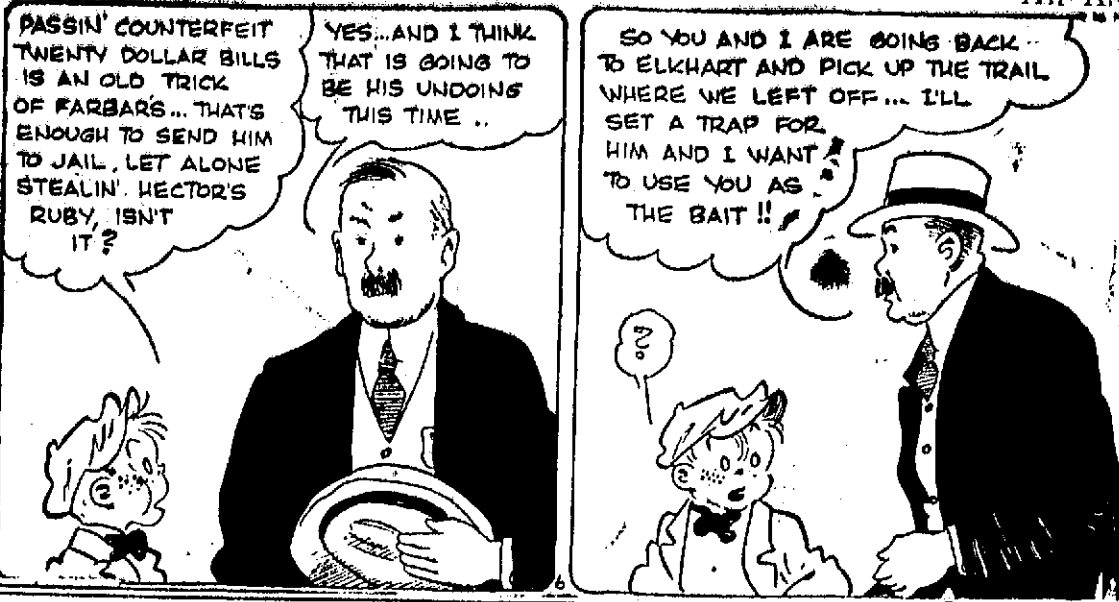

Mrs. Pierce Kline of Shreveport attended the community banquet at Hotel Barlow Tuesday evening. Dr. Pierce Kline of Shreveport was the principal speaker of the evening.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the First Christian church held their regular monthly meeting Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. W. Duckett on South Elm street, with Mrs. W. P. Harman as joint hostess. Mrs. Frank Gorin was leader for the afternoon and the program was a very interesting reading of a book regarding a life of sacrifice by Miss Elsie Reid. During the business period, splendid reports were read from the various standing committees. Plans for repairing the church were discussed and adopted. Following the missionary meeting a meeting of the Ladies Aid was held. During the social hour the hostess served a delicious ice course.

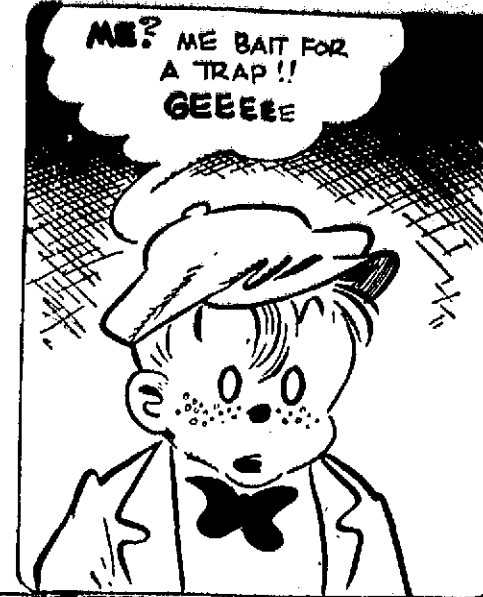

Miss Virginia Berry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Washington Berry of this city, appeared in a graduate recital in piano at Arkansas college Tuesday night in Batesville, where Miss Berry is a member of the junior class, and vice president of the student body.

The wedding took place last Saturday in Dallas. Mrs. Fuller is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Tidewell, of Dallas. Mr. Fuller is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Fuller of Bodew. They will be at home at 845 Clinton avenue, Dallas.

Bird Steals Fisherman's Worms From Tin Can

SHAMOKIN, Pa.—(U.P.)—The early bird catches the worm especially when the worm has already been dug from the ground and is waiting for the early bird in an unguarded tin can.

Dr. Leon Hollenbach spent the evening in the garden digging worms in preparation for his annual trip to the streams in quest of trout. The results of the evening's digging were placed in a tin can and left in the garden.

Hollenbach arose with the sun and after dressing hurried to the garden to get the worms. He was just in time to see a robin, probably a believer in the old adage, flying away with the last of the worms dangling from its beak.

FORD BRAKES ARE UNUSUALLY EFFECTIVE

Reliability and safety due to simple design and careful construction

ONE OF the first things you will notice when you drive the Ford is the quick, effective action of its four-wheel brakes.

They are unusually safe and reliable because they are mechanical, internal expanding, with all braking surfaces fully enclosed. This prevents mud, water, sand, etc., from getting between the band and drum and interfering with brake action.

Other outstanding features of the Ford are the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, torque-tube drive, more than twenty ball and roller bearings, Rustless Steel, reliability, economy, and long life.

You save when you buy the Ford and you save every mile you drive.

One MELODY GIRL

by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

AUTHOR OF The Husband Hunter, etc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BERYL BORDEN, secretly in love with TOMMY WILSON, discovers that he is planning to elope with her half-sister, IRENE EVERETT. So she and her "gang" kidnap Tommy and take him into the country where she urges him to continue in college and not break the heart of his aunt who is financing him. Failing to convince him, Beryl lets Tommy return to her sister, Irene, engaged at the long wait, refuses to listen to his pleas and postpones the elopement.

Next day Tommy goes fishing with his uncle and finds Beryl and her gang on the beach. One of the boys, ANGIE REED, slips away from the crowd and is carried out by the tide. Tommy and Beryl rescue him and she is arrested while speeding for a doctor. However, when the officer understands he helps her get the doctor and soon Angie is out of danger. Tommy scolds Beryl and she resents it. And she finds it doubly hard to hear the mild reproaches of Mrs. REED and the open insults of her jealous sister, Irene. Irene informs Tommy that she has important news.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VII

Irene turned over on her side, and went out, quietly closing the door behind her.

She went back to the kitchen and put away the things she'd got out in preparation for making the pie. She took off her apron, and returned upstairs to make herself presentable. It was her belief, fostered by Irene, that it became her to hide the graying of her hair with henna. That Beryl thought it hardened her wrinkled features was only another proof in their eyes that Beryl was not smart in her taste.

And when Mrs. Everett touched her lips with rouge, she was happily unaware that their thinness was not adapted to the addition of false color. Rouge looked well on Irene's rosebud mouth and all fashionable women used it, they agreed, so why not Mrs. Everett?

She looked, as she walked hurriedly toward the Reeds' house, precisely what she was—the somewhat vulgarly dressed mother of a daughter who saw no beauty in age, a spoiled daughter whose taste and whims colored the more characterless mother's life in too many respects.

She carried with her an everlasting agitation of a sense of futile effort. Beryl was sorry to see her arrive at the Reeds' among the neighbor women who had begun to gather there. She feared her mother's outspoken reproaches.

IRENE was, indeed, anxious to tell Tommy her good news, but he did not give her an opportunity at once. The instant they were outside the house he plunged into his plan for an early marriage and Irene was so pleased with the humble tone he took that she let him talk on until they had come within a block of her home. The harder he pleaded the more effective her refusal would be, she felt. Her big news would be even bigger when balanced against his contrition for being unable to rush to her that morning as she had expected he would.

"Won't you?" he said finally, and waited for an answer. Irene smiled, in a mysterious, smirking fashion.

"It's too late," she said dramatically. "The decision is taken out of my hands."

Tommy stared at her, somewhat taken aback. "Juh?" he said stupidly.

"I mean that while you were spending your time with Beryl and neglecting me my big opportunity came—and thank heavens I was home to hear when it knocked on the door. Think of it!" she seemed carried away with the immensity of the thought. "If I'd gone with you last night, Tommy, I'd have missed the first real chance I've had in my career."

Tommy was still unenlightened. "Think of what?" he asked.

Irene regarded him superciliously. "Of course you wouldn't know," she said loftily. "Well, to be explicit, my voice teacher telephoned this morning, and I'm to have an audition at RKG tomorrow afternoon."

"Had!" Tommy exclaimed.

"What a clever guess!" Irene flared.

"Why, that's great," Tommy said with genuine enthusiasm. "I'm really glad, Irene. I know you'd get a break some day. But listen, we always planned on it. Why should it interfere with our marriage now?"

"Interfere!" Irene repeated ex-

Suddenly Irene sat up. "Oh, I forgot!" she exclaimed. "Something dreadful happened and it was all Beryl's fault."

placely. "There's no question of my career interfering with anything. It's the other way round. Nothing is going to interfere with it!"

"But you don't understand," Tommy said despairingly. "I may need a lot of time before fall to fix things up with Aunt Em. Otherwise I might not go back to college."

IRENE shrugged, very Frenchly, she thought. "That's your affair," she said unsympathetically.

"Oh, have a heart," Tommy begged.

"Yes?" Irene mocked. "Well, you needn't be a dog in the manger, Tommy Wilson. There's no reason why I should put your interests before mine after the way you've treated me in the past 24 hours."

"I know," Tommy admitted ruefully. "But I couldn't help it. I didn't do it purposely."

"That's no excuse," Irene said.

"Then you won't do it? You won't even consider it?"

"Not now. My mind must be entirely free to think of my future. And if you don't mind, Tommy, I'd rather you didn't come in. This has been a terribly strenuous day and I'm exhausted. I must rest and save my voice."

"Yes," Tommy agreed. "I suppose you must. Well, goodbye, Irene. You're sure you don't want me to come in?"

"I'm quite sure. Goodbye. I'll let you know about the contract as soon as I get home."

"What contract?" Tommy asked foolishly.

"Why, the contract I'll get with RKG, of course."

"Oh yes, I see. Well, goodbye," Tommy said.

ONCE she had said to her mother and Irene that she could not see how blackening her whitened them any. Irene had wanted to know in what way she had ever discredited the family, and Mrs. Everett had been deeply wounded. Beryl had given up her self-defense as a hopeless undertaking.

This was when Irene had apologized profusely at Beryl's expense to a neighbor for the damage done to the latter's house gutters by the squirrels that came to feed on the nuts Beryl brought home from the grocery store as part of her wages. The squirrels ate the nuts in the gutters and clogged them with the shells. Irene had talked to the neighbor as though Beryl had known this unlikely result would come about and had supplied the nuts to the squirrels over her family's protest.

The feeling Beryl had known then came over her now as her mother proceeded to exonerate the family for blame in this, her incorrigible daughter's latest escapade.

And she could see that the women were impressed—even Mrs. Reed, who, until today, had been one of the staunchest supporters of Beryl. When one's own mother . . . The thought trailed away without a definite conclusion in the girl's weary brain. She was tired—tired as she had said if anyone had asked how she felt. She wanted to go somewhere and be alone.

"Where's Irene?" she asked her mother, interrupting a flow of meaningless talk. "Told that Irene was at home she decided not to go there."

"Poor Irene," her mother remarked and launched into a recital of what the day had brought to Irene. Everyone was interested and when Beryl broke in again to say that she thought she'd go to a picture show they considered her attitude toward her talented sister a callous one.

Beryl pretended not to notice, and was leaving the house when suddenly her mother called her back.

Ty Cobb and Family In Happier Days

Twenty-three years of married life may end in the divorce court for Mr. and Mrs. Tyrus Raymond Cobb, shown with their children in this picture taken shortly after the former major league star's retirement from baseball. Ty Cobb, Herschel and Jimmy Cobb, Ty Cobb, Beverly Cobb, and Ty Cobb, Jr.

Famous Old Big Leaguer Now Wields Paint Brush

HONEY CREEK, Wis.—(U.P.)—Clarence "Ginger" Beaumont, once known to every baseball fan in the country, at the age of 55 is busy in this village as a painter and decorator.

The name of Beaumont which formerly appeared prominently in sports pages was in the news again this week when Ginger's daughter, Marion, officiated as quince at the Carroll College annual junior prom at Waukesha, Wis.

Oldtime baseball fans recalled the brilliant career of Ginger Beaumont who spent 14 years in the major leagues and established records that have never been duplicated.

At 22, red-headed "Ginger" was a centerfielder for the Milwaukee Brewers. That was in 1898. His hitting was sensational and won him a place with the Pittsburgh Pirates. His first year with the Pirates was auspicious. On July 22, 1899, he went to bat six times and each time cracked out an infield hit that resulted in a score for his team. No other player has ever repeated that performance.

Baumont stayed with the Pirates seven years, played in the first World Series in 1903 against the Boston Red Sox, and the same year led the league with a batting average of .356. Although the Pirates won three pennants while Beaumont was with them, they failed to win a world championship.

After leaving Pittsburgh, Beaumont played for three years with the Boston National League club and in 1910 went to the Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs won the National League championship that year, but failed in the World Series against Connie Mack's Athletics. Beaumont believed that his jinx was responsible—for no pennant winning team he played with ever won a world championship.

In 1911, Beaumont was shipped to St. Paul of the association. He was through and he knew it. At the end of the season he turned in his suit and for three years was a farmer. Then he became a painter and now as he daubs kalsomine on walls, he recalls his days in the big time and recounts his triumphs to interested listeners.

Besides his oldest daughter, Marion, Beaumont and his wife have two other children, Charles, 16, and Janice, 10.

Hogs Get Surplus Corn So Farmers Won't Lose

CLEMSON COLLEGE, S. C.—(U.P.)—South Carolina farmers are utilizing a surplus corn production in hog raising.

Authorities at the state college of agriculture here point out that the state has a corn and feed surplus of 18 per cent above normal which is selling at a relatively low price.

They are urging farmers to use the surplus as hog feed, declaring hog prices will continue high, and cornbelt crop last year was ruined by dry weather.

Chute Jumps Pay Tall

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky.—(U.P.)—chute jumping on Sunday and Monday to thrill crowds has earned enough money for Hugh Thomas, 16, to pay his way through school. He says he has nearly saved enough for course at the University of Southern California. He is said to be the youngest professional parachute jumper in the country.

Forestry Service Planted 21,000 Acres of Trees

WASHINGTON.—(U.P.)—The National Forest Service planted last year more than 21,000 acres of trees in national forests, according to reports.

Forest acreage planted has been increased gradually from a low point in 1921 of 5,500 acres, as the result of small increases in funds made available by Congress, and of improvements in planting technique. Forest officers are of the opinion that more than 25,000 acres will be planted during this year.

Large crews already have been sent out to begin planting operations for 1931.

Appeal For Property For Levees Is Denied

WASHINGTON.—(A.P.)—The appeal of Thomas Wolfe and other property owners in Tensas parish, Louisiana, contesting the taking of their land, by the fifth Louisiana levee district for levee construction under the federal flood control act, failed Monday in the supreme court.

Wolfe and the others claimed that they should have first been compensated for their property, but the supreme court affirmed the decision of a lower court without a written opinion.

The decision will enable the government to proceed with the work.

Severe Sickness Left Lady In Debilitated Condition. — Tells How Cardui Helped.

"Some years ago, I was in a very weakened condition from a severe sickness," writes Mrs. S. R. Pearson, of Greer, S. C.

"I was very weak and so nervous I could not stand on my feet, I would get so faint."

"I read in the newspaper that Cardui helped weak women, so decided to use it."

"After I began taking Cardui, I grew stronger. I was less nervous. I kept it up until I had taken one dozen bottles. By that time, I was strong and well again."

"I have never found anything that gave me strength and stopped nervousness as Cardui did. I highly recommend it."

Many women are surprised at the recovery of strength following their use of Cardui, when in a weak, nervous condition, such as described above.

Cardui is a harmless, mild, medicinal compound of botanical drugs, and may be safely taken by women of all ages.

CORNER ON WORLD

The United States and its citizens have accumulated 37 billion dollars. They were to pay us 20 per cent of what they owe us tonight. They would be enough gold to make the transaction. They owe 37 billion dollars to pay us with. The United States has only 6 per cent of the world's population, but it has 45 per cent of its gold.

The Age of Gold
During the 10 years in which this gold has been accumulated by the United States we have had an average of two bank failures a day. And the average of it is two years of exceedingly hard times.

We are beginning to discover that an age of gold is not always a golden age.

The wealth of a nation is not measured by its circulating medium. "Our prosperity in the past was based on our sales abroad—and upon conditions which were favorable to the circulation of money, not the hoarding of it."

The United States was not alone among the nations which made foreign investments. England invested billions in property in other countries. But it is significant that when England did that she also took on an unpayable trade balance. In other words, when England made foreign investments she started buying goods from abroad.

But the war hit the United States too quickly.

So far has this trend gone that if the world were to pay us interest only at 5 per cent, on all that it owes us, within 10 years the United

ON GREENS

If your salad is made of greens or light vegetables, select a dressing that will let the flavors of the salad assert themselves. Bachelor Club Dressing would be an excellent choice.

To make Bachelor Club Dressing: Beat together twelve tablespoonfuls of Wesson Oil, three tablespoonfuls of vinegar, one teaspoonful of salt and one teaspoonful each of dry mustard and paprika. Then stir in two tablespoonfuls of finely chopped onions.

ON FRUITS

Fruits, on the other hand, don't go very well with a tart, sharp dressing. They respond best to a dressing to which a little cheese or some nuts have been added. Or one that is slightly sweetened... like Bar-le-Duc Dressing.

To make Bar-le-Duc Dressing: Beat together six tablespoonfuls of Wesson Oil, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter teaspoon of paprika and one-eighth teaspoon of white pepper. Into this mix six tablespoonfuls of red Bar-le-Duc or currant jelly.

ON SEAFOOD

If your salad is going to be something hearty and substantial, made with seafood, serve it with Lemonaise (mayonnaise made with lemon juice). The flavor of the salad will be improved however, if first you marinate the ingredients.

*To marinate: Mix twelve tablespoonfuls of Wesson Oil and three tablespoonfuls of vinegar. Add one teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter teaspoon of pepper. Pour over seafood and set aside in the refrigerator for several hours. Serve with Lemonaise.

Sugar in tea salt in Bouillon

IMAGINE putting sugar on everything that came to the table... on meats as well as in tea. It would be all wrong, wouldn't it? We select the seasoning to suit the dish. And so it is with salads. So many different things are used to make salads no one dressing is suitable for all of them. There is a different salad dressing for each different kind of salad. So...

mix a dressing appropriate to the salad

The flavors of greens and light vegetables suggest a tart dressing such as Bachelor Club or Vinaigrette Dressing. Fruits respond best to a sweet dressing such as Bar-le-Duc... or one made with cheese or nuts. Seafoods, however, taste best when they are marinated in French Dressing and served with Lemonaise.

TELLS HOW TO GET RID OF RHEUMATISM IN 48 HOURS

Big 8 Ounce Bottle For Only 85 Cents

It Is Guaranteed

Thousands of well meaning people are taking the chance of being crippled for life with rheumatism. When a rheumatic attack occurs they seek to denude the pain with handy relievers—a method that usually ends with disastrous results. Every rheumatic sufferer knows that painful, swollen, inflamed joints and muscles are caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood. When you drive this troublesome uric acid from the blood you are getting rid of the cause of rheumatism—relievers won't do this. While you are taking the nerve deadening relievers the uric acid continues to penetrate further and further into the joints and tendons leaving deposits so deep seated that they cannot be reached—this often means that the takers of drugs for relief only are disabled for life.

If every person who is afflicted with rheumatic manifestations would start at once to get the uric acid out of the blood—it would perhaps mean the avoidance of crippled joints in years to come. This can be done by taking one tablespoonful of Allenru three times a day—Allenru acts on the blood and drives from it the uric acid that causes your rheumatic agony, and does it in 48 hours. You can get a generous bottle of Allenru at Briant's Drug Store or any progressive druggist for 85 cents—take it with every assurance that it is a real enemy of uric acid—and of rheumatic conditions—and bear in mind, if it doesn't do as advertised—money back—Allenru is just as good for sciatica.

On Pitching Angles

THE young man yearning to play regularly in the big leagues should aspire to hit either right or left-handed. For it has become increasingly the fashion to use left-handed batsmen when right-handers are pitching, with right-handers hitting against southpaws. Pucky Harris has carried the experiment to an almost radical degree this year with the Tigers. In the first few games, he alternated a complete set of outfielders. Against southpaws he used a rookie trio, with Doljack in left, Gerald Walker in right and Ivey Shiver in center. Against right-handers he used Stone in left, Harvey (Hubby) Walker in center and Johnson in right.

Where Heroes Played

JUST how this works out only time and figures will prove with any accuracy. There are other factors, too, which enter into the statistics but which cannot be computed, such as the individual ability of each man himself.

Oddly, the experiment by Manager Harris was conducted with a team that in the past boasted some mighty outfielders. In Detroit pastures roamed Cobb and Crawford and Veach and Heilmann and Manush and that simon-pure slugger Patsy Fothergill.

Harris, in search of speed and ability, is confronted with the building of a new outfield. Just before the season started, he told me he was pretty well satisfied with his pitching staff.

But you never can tell about pitchers. In the first five games Detroit played, four starting pitchers were shelled from the trenches. Only one, Earl Whitehill, fished his assignment. Three pitchers were driven from the box in, of all places, St. Louis.

Pitching Quirks

BUT there has been some strange pitching on all fronts this

DID YOU KNOW THAT— IN 1887 11 men composed the Notre Dame football squad... that was because there were only 11 uniforms... there was no regulation football to be had... they used a home-made ball... the scrimmaging practice was furnished by innocent bystanders... the uniform worn was on the order of the baseball suit of 1904... F. H. Springer, and on the varsity of '87, wore a dandy mustache... the football was tennis shoes the headgear consisted of a tassel cap... no pads were used... Notre Dame lost its first game to the University of Michigan that year, 24 to 6.

season. Wes Ferrell, the Cleveland ace, figured that the Tigers would be soft for him after the way they played dead for the Browns. The Tigers slammed him right off the rubber. Earnshaw suffered a hostile reception the first four times he worked. The only man who could win for Brooklyn in the first 10 days of the campaign was Joe Shaute, the former Cleveland, who was figured as washed up with a sore arm a year ago.

But, to return to the young man who aspires to play regularly in the outfield. If he can learn to bat on either side of the plate, he can figure an advantage for himself that few big leaguers have. I think Frankie Frisch, Bill Hunnefeld, Jack Rothrock, Lu Blue, Wally Schang, Mark Koenig and Charley Wilson the only players, aside from pitchers, who bat at either side. Pitchers Braxton, McKain, Lyons, Fannock and Hubbell are also "turbid
